

Pool surfaces can be bleached when chemical products are left in solid form against the surface for too long. Bleaching will appear as light or faded areas or spots on pool bottom, in corners and sometimes on lower part of the pool walls. Bleaching cannot be reversed, so it is important to always brush undissolved product to prevent surface discolouration.